Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-7, 9-10, and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sorhaug et al.(US 6,424,627), hereinafter referred to as Sorhaug.

Regarding claim 1, Sorhaug discloses full duplex medium tap apparatus and system.

*a first port that can receive an end of a first segment of a network cable (a first port of a tap 50-fig.2 receives a first segment of cable from destination B 55-fig.2);
a second port that can receive an end of a second segment of a network cable (a second port of the tap receives a first segment of cable from destination A 51-fig.2), the first port and the second port permitting network data to be communicated between the first segment and the second segment;*

an integrated circuit configured to communicate with a node between the first port and the second port such that the integrated circuit has access to the network data (an transceiver 64-fig.3 is configured to communicate with MUX 130-fig.3 between the ports such that the transceiver has access to the network data); and

a management port placed in communication with the integrated circuit, wherein the remote computer can be selectively connected to the management port to interact with the integrated circuit (a third port -fig.2 of the tap 50-fig.2 in communication with transceiver 64-fig.3 enables media monitor 40-fig.2 connects to the port to interact with the transceiver, see col.2-line 40 to col.3-line 64).

Regarding claim 2, the transceiver 64-fig.3 controls other components of the network tap, i.e. F/F 102, device 68.

Regarding claim 3, the transceiver is capable of extracting data or statistics from the network data.

Regarding claim 4, the data includes address information of data packets.

Regarding claim 5, the transceiver 64-fig.2 is programmable.

Regarding claim 6, the transceiver 64-fig.2 inherently includes a microprocessor.

Regarding claim 7, the transceiver 64-fig.2 could comprise a field programmable gate array.

Regarding claim 9, the media tap 50-fig.2 includes another port through which a copy of the network data can be transmitted to destination A; and MUX 130-fig.3 functions as a routing node in communication with the first, second port, and the another port to pass data between the first and second port, and transmit the data from the another port to one of the first and second ports.

Regarding claim 10, the transceiver 64-fig.3 is in communication with the MUX 130-fig.3.

Regarding claim 12, the transceiver and the MUX could be provided by a field programmable gate array.

Allowable subject matter

3. Claims 14-32 are allowed.
4. Claims 8, 11, and 13 are objected to as being independent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
